

CHRISTINI All Wheel Drive to Launch II-Track Snow Utility Bike

CHRISTINI All Wheel Drive Motorcycles' "II-Track" Snow Utility Bike system aims to add serious traction to the snow bike and utility vehicle world.

Philadelphia, PA (PRWEB) March 31, 2016 -- CHRISTINI All Wheel Drive Motorcycles announces the development of their II-Track Snow Bike system for use in both recreation and military applications. This two track system will utilize the All Wheel Drive technology of the CHRISTINI AWD Motorcycle platform to power both the front and rear of the machine via a patent pending front track system. The front track system will enable the already versatile CHRISTINI AWD Motorcycle to be used as a year round machine grabbing traction in every condition imaginable.

How it Works:

The system will utilize a small snow track that will be centered between a split ski to assist in flotation. The track will be positioned between the front forks and driven from the front hub which in turn is powered by the AWD drive system. The track will be integrated into the split ski configuration in a way that is adjustable for various conditions from hard packed snow, soft powder, mud, and sand. Because the track will be positioned in the front of the machine, it will also be used as a braking system as well as an additional traction source.

Compatibility:

The CHRISTINI AWD Motorcycle has a standard dirt bike swing arm configuration which makes it compatible with standard snow track systems allowing them to work in conjunction with the CHRISTINI II-Track. To use the II-Track system, a rider will have to have a CHRISTINI AWD 450 four stroke or 300 two stroke motorcycle as the base machine. CHRISTINI AWD Motorcycles start at $8,395 MSRP.
